Muster 2005

Dedication

Rear Admiral Maurice J. Bresnahan, Jr. USN

September 13, 1936 - November 6, 2004

"Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things that you didn't do than the things you did do. So throw off the bowlines. Sail away from the safe harbor. Catch the trade wind in your sails. Explore. Dream. Discover."

Dear Members of the Class of 2005,

Congratulations! After weathering the storms and steering past the rocks and shoals at one of the more difficult college choices in the nation, you have sailed into the harbor of your dreams. You may not appreciate it in the months after graduation, but one of life's truths will become evident to you as you continue your life's journey. Actually, it is revealed here in this book. As you peruse the pages, you will notice that the bulk of the material is about the class of 2005. Formal photos and candids, bios, coded snippets, descriptions of sea terms and high jinks are all testament to your time together. It celebrates the fact that "together" you have achieved graduation from the Massachusetts Maritime Academy. While graduation will undoubtedly be the last time the class of 2005 will be all together in one place, the bonds formed as shipmates and classmates will last your lifetime and will shape your future in ways you can not even imagine at this time. It is the shared experiences of the past four (or more) years that will form the foundation upon which you will build your career and personal life.

Certainly there are some shots of the staff and the faculty, but they are there just to frame the centerpiece of the book; the graduates. Much as a good frame can enhance a piece of artwork, the faculty and staff have certainly enhanced your educational experience. But we are the boundaries of your life at Maritime, setting limits and holding you accountable even when you did not want that. We are but the riverbanks; it is the students who flow through that are the life of this residential, regimental college. The administrative staff and the faculty may provide guidance and instruction while you are here, but now and forevermore, you are on your own...beyond our control. Filled with good counsel and knowledge, you are ready for an adventure.

I have two regrets. The first is that my current job has removed me from the daily operations and face to face contact with much of the class of 2005. Getting to watch the transformation from wide eyed, disoriented youngie in August to self confident, experienced leader by graduation was always the best part of working here. The second regret is that your biggest champion, Admiral Bresnahan, could not be with you to share your joy.

In closing, I would ask that you keep in mind one of the Admiral's favorite sayings: "Shipmates before brothers; brothers before others." God speed to the Class of 2005.

Regards,

Rick Gurnon
Commodore, MMA

Class of 2005

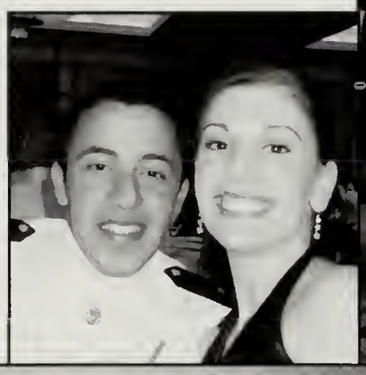
For most graduates, their class ring is a symbol of dedication, hard work, achievement and most of all, pride. Every ring exemplifies the tradition of our school and the uniquenes of each class.



Hilton Logan Boston

Sunday, May 23, 2004

One side of the ring personifies the history and character of Massachusetts Maritime Academy. It portrays the past, 114 years of tradition that the Academy has upheld. The class side of the ring indicates symbolic elements describing our class.

Athletics

Athletic Director Bob Corradi and Assistant Athletic Director SkipThompson

To the Student-Athletes of the Class of 2005,

Many of your fondest memories of your years at MMA will be of your experiences as a college athlete. The bonds of friendship you developed with your teammates will be among the strongest and longest lasting of your college years. The wins, and even the losses, will stir memories and inspire conversations every time you open this book for years to come. You have been the lifeblood of our athletic programs and you will be long-remembered by your coaches.

You have made a lasting impression on us and we hope we have contributed to making your MMA experience something you will cherish throughout your life.

We thank you for all that you have contributed to Massachusetts Maritime Academy Athletics and wish you the best of luck in your careers. You will always be what few can claim...college athletes.

Sincerely,

Bob Corradi, Director of Athletics
Skip Thompson, Assistant Director of Athletics
